

The Plum Village Hong Kong is now raising fund for the reconstruction of the

AMITABHA BUDDHA TEMPLE

The Luk Wu Village of Ngong Ping is an old Buddhist Zen village with more than 100 years of history. In view of the physio-psychological stresses that the Hong Kong general public has recently suffered, the sangha at the Plum Village Hong Kong wishes to renovate one of our run-down monasteries that was built in the 1950s, namely the Amitabha Buddha Temple and its associated sanctuaries, for the purpose of cultivating mindful, peaceful, and joyful energies and connecting monastics and lay practitioners of different traditions through mindfulness practices.

Due to the substantial costs for renovation, we would be grateful to those who support this project, so that we can procure needed items and pay for the engineering works. We can only make this happen with your donation, so please choose one or more items from the following list and contact us. We will issue and mail a tax-deductible receipt, Letter of Gratitude, and a Commemorative Book to acknowledge your compassion and generosity.
